KANKAKEE PLAYS TONIGHT

Mini-Purple Battle Tops Big Ten Cage Tonight

Danville Host To Kay Cagers Outside Loop

The heavy rains of Friday that flooded many of the highways in this section of the state brought postponement of at least two important high school basketball games last night—Blue Island at Kankakee, and Coal City at Bradley. Future dates for these games had not been made by noon today.

Despite the postponement of the Kankakee game, the team played yesterday afternoon. Coach Gene Dykstra's Kay's have important games this week-end. The Kankakee team travels to Danville this afternoon where tonight at 8:30 p.m. the locals tackle top prep of that city in the second meeting of this season between the two schools. Danville won the previous encounter 12 to 8, but has improved tremendously since this engagement. This is no small suburban game. Kankakee looks ahead to its clash with Bradley here Tuesday night. With the other game postponed, Bradley will have had a full week of rest before tackling the Kay's. The Bradley game was Tuesday night and the team remains idle this evening.

WATSEKA BEAT RANTOUL

Despite the fact that few games were played last night in the northeastern section of the state, a large number of prep battles were waged on other fronts.

Watsika, getting stronger as tournament time approached, scored 58 to 33 victory over Rantoul. Watsika's team was coached by Coach Watsika, who is a former player of the team. Rantoul's team was coached by Coach Rantoul, who is a former player of the team.

Army Gets $14,000 From Hockey Game

Boston, Mass., Feb. 7.—(UP)—The army relief fund received $14,000 today from a 4-4 tie of the hockey game between the one-time National hockey league and the Boston Bruins.

A sellout crowd of 14,662 saw the game last night at the Boston Garden. It reached a climax when the full squads of both teams exchanged 4-4 tie in the last minute of the game.

Here's A Long Range Wager; Vander Meer To Be Among Best

By JACK GUENTHER
New York, Feb. 7.—(UP)—If I were inclined to gamble on baseball hurlers instead of investing in stocks and bonds, I'd dedicate a couple of quarters to the gill-edged proposition that Johnny Vander Meer of Cincinnati will finish the 1942 season as one of the five best pitchers in the National league.

Since I'm not so inclined, I'll pass along my calculations for the benefit of the reckless souls in the crowd.

The major change involves eight games. The majors will play twice their usual number of contests under lights in 1942. A second day game will be added to the schedule. Ordinarily a ball is tossed out as soon as it is scratched. This year they will be used until they are more scarred than the Gneissian and the Schuylkill.

Aid to Moundmen
Both switches, particularly speed artists like Vander Meer. The pitcher always has had a slight advantage in the game at night. He holds a similar fractional edge over the batter when he is permitted to throw the ball that has been dirtied or cuffed about. His fetters are harder to see.

Vander Meer should benefit tremendously because he pitches more on speed. His theory of delivery is simple. He leans back, snaps his arm and fires the ball past the batter with the stick. When he has completed his throw, he has the ball in his hand. He has the ball in his hand. He has the ball in his hand.

Mangrum Tops Western Open Field With 65

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 7.—(UP)—Lloyd Mangrum, lanky Chicago professional with little Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., at his heels, led the nation's foremost golfers into the second round of the $5,000 Western open golf tournament today.

Bettering par by six strokes, Mangrum finished the first 18-hole round with a 65, two over the Phoenix Country club course record. Hogan's card of 67 was next best.

Mangrum, member of the 1941 Ryder cup team, shaved five strokes from the par 36 going out, getting an eagle three good birdies and a birdie on the second. He took par on the third and picked up three more strokes after bogie on the sixth.

Sugar Hoarding May Cause Talk Among Neighbors

School Teachers Will Be Agents Of Price Administrator

Washington, Feb. 7.—(P)—Fear of what the neighbors might think or say is expected to prove a powerful deterrent to sugar hoarding under the stamp rationing plan which will start in a few weeks with registration of consumers in their neighborhood school houses.

The announcement by Price Administrator Leon Henderson that school teachers would be his agents in handling the applications of consumers for stamp books—one for every adult and child in the county—placed the sugar rationing plan, like that for tires and tubes, on a neighborhood basis.

That fact, some officials thought, might be as effective as the stern but hard-to-enforce legal penalties which could be invoked to prevent sugar hoarding or bootleg buying.

Each household's knowledge that the people next door might gossip and that the gossip might reach the ears of the local rationing boards which will supervise the issuance of stamp books, might head off any inclination to hoard sugar, these officials noted.

However, Henderson yesterday based his appeal for cooperation solely on patriotic grounds—"For the first time every person in the country now has an opportunity to make a direct contribution to the war."

Other OPA officials said the temptation to hoard might disappear as individuals discovered they could get along all right on 12 ounces a week and that the war production board was responsible for guaranteeing that this amount, or close to it, would be available unfailingly in grocery stores.

The person who registers for his family's copies of "War Ration Book No. 1" will sign an application declaring the amount of sugar in his home. On the application form will be a reminder that making false statements to any federal agency is a criminal offense carrying penalties up to $10,000 fine or ten years' imprisonment.

Those whose family supply exceeds two pounds per person will have an appropriate number of stamps detached from the front of their books. Since each stamp will be numbered for use in 28 consecutive weeks, those lacking the first few stamps will have to use up the sugar in the cupboards before getting more.

Each stamp will entitle the bookholder to buy a specified amount of sugar, probably 12 ounces a week. Consumers will tender stamps to the grocer along with their money, and the grocer will paste the stamps on a card which he must turn in the wholesaler in order to replenish his own sugar bins.

"Heart Disease" Often Is A False Diagnosis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

At the beginning of Dr. Richard Cabot's book "Facts on the Heart," he puts down the statement, "Most heart disease is imaginary."

Every practicing doctor who sees many patients knows that this is true. The words "heart disease" are fearsome sounds to most people and it is no wonder when some doctor makes a careless remark about a dropped beat in the pulse or a little rise in blood pressure or a queer sound in the heart, that this should create dread and foreboding.

Many kinds of instruments have been placed in the doctor's hands to use in examining the heart and sometimes one doctor or another hasn't learned how to use these wisely. It was this sort of practice that caused an eminent American medical man to wish that the blood pressure instrument had never been invented and caused Sir James MacKenzie to say that the stethoscope had done more harm than good.

I find much wisdom in the list given by a Boston physician of various signs and symptoms apparently produced by the heart in its complicated work, but which do not necessarily mean heart disease.

Slow Pulse
For instance, there is slow pulse. A pulse as slow as fifty is commonly found in young athletes. Slow pulses are also regularly found in elderly people and in convalescents from any illness. Irregularity of the heart doesn't mean heart disease. There is one form of irregularity that occurs in over seventy per cent of young people in which the pulse is faster during inspiration of the breath than in expiration. At the other extreme of life, seventy-five per cent of people over fifty-five years old have an irregularity of the pulse in the form of dropped beat.

Disturbances of the heart sounds may be mistakenly called murmurs. The physician who tells a patient that he has a heart murmur of a valvular disease of the heart should be very certain of his ground. The heart makes all sorts of queer noises.

Twenty Abnormal Heart Sounds

Last week in pursuit of some studies in the auscultation of the heart, I made a list of some twenty abnormal sounds which the heart makes and which are not murmurs and the not dangerous and which nobody very thoroughly understands.

Plain in the chest nowadays is almost invariably put down to angina pectoris or coronary artery disease. As a matter of fact, pain and tenderness in the chest in young people is almost always functional or nervous in origin. Discomfort in the chest which is not due to heart disease is almost constant in some people and in most of them is usually aggravated by exertion.

Even if organic heart disease exists, it is not incompatible with long life. I saw a review in a medical journal the other day of the histories of twenty patients, all of whom were over eighty years of age, and all of whom had had a heart disease for some thirty to sixty years.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. E. B.—What causes a sty, are they contagious, and what is the best thing to do for them?
Answer: Sties are caused by a staphylococcus infection in the hair follicle of the eyelash. They are not likely to be contagious to others, but when one of them comes along, it is very likely that self-contagion will occur by rubbing the eyes so that the other eyelash follicles are infected. In the way of prevention, the best thing I know is to get a ten per cent solution of alcohol and a small camel's hair brush and when a person has a sty brush the edges of the eyelid lightly two or three times a day with the brush after it has been dipped in the alcohol.

Not A Dime For Ball Room Dancer Or Screen Stars

Washington, Feb. 7.—(P)—The house appeared today to be willing to spend $100,000,000 for the civilian defense program, but not a dime for ball room dancer Mayris Chaney or screen celebrities Melvyn Douglas and Donald Duck.

After listening to sharp criticisms of appointments of Miss Chaney, friend of Mrs. Roosevelt, and Douglas to posts in the office of civilian defense, the chamber yesterday tentatively inserted in a $100,000,000 defense bill a prohibition against use of any of the $100,000,000 defense fund for "dancers, fan dancing, street shows, theatrical performances or other public entertainment."

The house also decided to eliminate an $80,000 allotment to pay for a Walt Disney cartoon film depicting the colorful Donald cheerfully filling out his income tax return in this year of war.

In Philadelphia, Miss Chaney said her work as director of the OGD's children's fitness division was "important."

"I did not ask for it. I was asked to take it," she said of her job, which includes the making of keepsake children's minds occupied in war raid shelters. The position pays $4,600 a year.

Douglas's job as head of an art council carries an $8,000 annual salary, but only while he actually works at it.

Action of the house will be subject to later roll call votes. Chairman Cannon (R-Mo.) of the appropriations committee gained a delay until Monday on final action on the omnibus outlay in the hope of rallying support behind these and other controversial provisions.
